

Snoopie Party Put Up by Wife To Snip Her Ties to Dry Snooper

By ALFRED ALBELL.

A little domestic drama, which might properly be entitled, "Let's Make Snoopie," will be enacted by its original cast Friday in Manhattan Supreme court.

Mrs. Adele T. Tierney, a brunette who is not an unfamiliar figure in the courts, will play opposite James F. Tierney, one of the stellar members of Maj. Maurice Campbell's local prohibition troupe.

In pressing an application for divorce, Mrs. Tierney will start off with a recital of her cellar smelling hubby's minor faults—eating crackers in bed and surliness at the breakfast table.

Mrs. Tierney will tell how she trailed the federal sleuth and a certain blonde to a Broadway hotel one evening about three months ago—and what she saw there when she broke into a room.

The day after the raid, Mrs. Tierney consulted her attorney, Jerome Healy jr., 601 East Tremont ave., Bronx. He advised her she had grounds for a divorce. Then she went to another lawyer, Samuel J. Siegel, 521 5th ave. He said that Healy was right. Both attorneys will appear in court with her Friday.
